

Kevin's Puzzle of the Week

Destination Vacation

Ready for a vacation that's out of this world? First, you'll travel to a land where the ice is the cleanest around. You'll have three days there to visit some of the more than a hundred snow geysers before setting off for your next destination.

Don't be afraid - your next stop will be the twin lands. They are the only two in the area, so you can choose to visit them in either order, as long as you spend five days at one and six at the second.

Your next destination is a spot that's truly magnetic. It is by far the largest land on this trip, though for me it's the deep oceans that are truly wondrous. Regardless, you have five days to explore.

After that, you will travel someplace very different. This hot spot has hundreds of volcanoes and some truly massive mountains. You only get two days here - it's too dangerous to stay longer.

You then spend five days in a place with some real atmosphere for a change. Hopefully it doesn't rain on your parade.

At your next stop, you'll get a great view of the mainland, even if the angle never changes. Many people say that this place is practically its own world. After three days there, you're sure to agree.

Next up is a stop at the smoothest destination around. It's always possible for you to find some night life here, and you have two days to do it.

For the final stop on your tour, enjoy four nights in a frozen wonderland. Tourists say that being here feels like turning back the clock. Enjoy your stay, and when you are done, return home. See what you've become?
